

MANAGEMENT SUPPORT SERVICES

Project Supervision

The superintendent shall oversee the progress of all construction projects. Of primary importance is that the projects proceed as planned with regard to expenditures and timetables.

For complex projects involving substantial capital outlay, the board may hire a person to supervise the project. Any such person hired in this capacity shall be paid from funds set aside for this purpose.

General responsibility for supervision of construction projects shall rest with the architect or engineer. The District's manager of facilities and planning or a designated clerk-of-the-works will observe the work representing the Districts' interests and also will aid in expediting the construction work.
